VOLUME VIII.

PADUCAH, KENTUCKY, MONDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1901.

NUMBER 132.

THE CRIMINAL TERM BEGINS

The Grand Jury Impaneled in Circuit Court Today.

The Docket Has Over One Hundred Cases, With Many Prisoners to Indict.

PROCEEDINGS IN OTHER COURTS

CIRCUIT COURT

The criminal term of court, to last three weeks, began this morning. Judge Hunsdale presiding, with 117 cases on the docket. The most interesting cases are:

James Spriggs, murder.
James Hodge, perjury.
Mary M. De Maeburn, alias Mary M. Kennedy, false swearing.
Ernest Halberstadt, malicious cutting.
Irene Clemens, grand larceny.
P. J. Dismore, obtaining money by false pretenses.
L. M. Stranges, endeavoring to conceal the birth of an illegitimate child.
H. B. Gilbert and J. H. Arns, keeping a disorderly house.
J. L. Hutter, keeping a disorderly house.
Helen Williams, horse stealing.
Elinor Haver, false swearing.
Sarah Leibel, attempting to bribe.
H. M. Hester, bribery.
Spencer and Annie Rogers, his sweetheart.

The prisoners in jail awaiting indictment are: Will Dunnett, malicious shooting; Fred Dusenberry, assault with intent to kill; "Doc" Hines, attempt to rob; Fannie Wilson, Ed Jones and Tina Smith, alias Gus Hingale, robbery; Ed Jones, grand larceny; John Powell, grand larceny; John Gainer and John Hamilton, alias Pin Hamilton, robbery; Oscar Rosa, alias Chas. Roth, grand larceny and obtaining property by false pretense; Will George, housebreaking.

The following is a list of the grand jurors empaneled and sworn in for the term: John Long, A. T. Robertson, Samuel Long, F. A. Stirling, F. P. Thibault, M. T. Finley, Philip Post, D. H. Shannon, John Hest, J. E. Thibault, John Kettejohn and L. M. Riecke.

Before the minutes of the last term were read and signed by the judge, the defendant in the case of G. W. Morrison, against the Mechanics' Building and Loan Association filed a motion to set aside the judgment rendered in the last term of court.

Sheriff Rogers and deputies were sworn in as usual.

J. O. Rouse was fined $150, a forfeiture for his non-appearance after a legal summons to appear at the court.

Lena Chapman, colored, who became involved in a quarrel several years ago and sent a companion was fined $25 for cutting in a heat of passion. The fine and the charge were paid by agreement.

Chas. Graham placed his report showing $105.00 and was ordered to pay that amount into court.

POLICE COURT

Judge Sanders had a large docket this morning. Prosecuting Attorney J. Wheeler Campbell, whose wife is ill, was represented by his father, Judge James Campbell. Tomorrow morning the new prosecutor, Attorney Jesse Gilbert, takes charge, and the marshal, Officer Chow, will be in charge for the first time.

Ben Hendrick and Elbert Holmes, two small colored boys, are charged with stealing a watch from Andrew Hall, a railroad. They were seen with it, but the officers cannot induce them to tell a consistent tale of what became of it. They tell a different one every time. They were held for further investigation.

Jess Hones, white, who was charged with mistreating his wife, was fined $20 and costs but the fine was subsequently reduced to $10 and costs. He claimed that she was quarreling with him for drinking and she pushed her over against the wall, but the court decided that he did not have any right to do this and assessed the fine and placed him under a $200 peace bond. The case against Sam Evitts, charged with cutting a woman, was filed away, as the prosecuting witness has disappeared.

Ed Townsend and P. Moore were fined $20 and costs for gambling and a case against Jesse Hingale was dismissed for want of evidence.

The case against Henry McBride, alias Tom Kelley, colored, charged with maliciously cutting May Belle Hinson, was turned over to the grand jury.

Bessie Owens, was fined $10 and costs for being drunk and disorderly.

Delton Parish, a young man working at a heading factory, was charged with stealing an overcoat in possession of his roommate at the boarding house on Broad street. He explained that he simply took it to use, and had no idea of stealing it, and the court gave him the benefit of the doubt and dismissed him.

Will McDaniel, for a plain drunk, $1.

H. E. Whitesides, for a breach of ordinance, $7 and costs.

Catherine Collins, for a breach of the peace, $5 and costs.

Charles Brown, colored, for threatening to kill several people on the wharf, $10 and costs.

MARRIED AT CHICAGO

Mr. Frank Riecke and Miss Margery Machen Reported Wedded.

A Letter Was Read to Them Monday in the Way City

NO PARTICULARS ARE OBTAINABLE

It was reported this morning that Mr. Frank Riecke, superintendent of the Paducah Ice company, and Miss Margery Machen, of Morgantown, Ala., who had been visiting Mrs. J. Wheeler Campbell here, were married at Chicago recently.

Mr. Riecke left Saturday and Miss Machen had gone the day before on a visit. It was generally understood among their friends that they were to be married, but definite could be learned here, and The Sun telegraphed the Chicago News, and received the following reply this afternoon:

"Chicago Ill., Dec. 2. Sen. Paducah, Ky.—Mr. Frank Riecke obtained marriage license at 10 o'clock today, and gave his address as Cincinnati, and here as Chicago. No trace of them can be found."

"Daily News."

It is seen from the foregoing that when the paducah young couple returned, he will have a bride. He is a son of Mr. W. H. Riecke, and boards at the Palmer house.

Miss Machen had been visiting friends in Paducah for several weeks, and became very popular in society. She is a most charming young lady and comes from a prominent southern family.

AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT

SUPREME COURT DECIDED AGAINST LEVYING ON IMPORTS FROM PHILIPPINES.

Washington, Dec. 2.—The supreme court today decided against the government in the "Fourteen Diamond Rings" case, holding that the government has no right to levy duty on imports from the Philippines. This means that congress must immediately act on the Philippine tariff question.

SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Dinah McCurry filed a suit for absolute divorce and the restoration of her maiden name, Dinah Long, against her husband, Nelson McCurry, this morning in circuit court. She gives five years separation her grounds for the action.

Try Dr. Jeanelle's tooth powder. It is warranted to be the best offered to the public.

HAS REACHED HIS EIGHTY-SIXTH

Colonel John C. Noble Today Celebrating His Birthday.

He Is Still Bright and Active—The Sixty-Ninth Anniversary of His Marriage Tomorrow.

PUBLISHED A PAPER YEARS AGO

Col. John C. Noble, the veteran journalist, who is known throughout the state as the Nestor of Kentucky journalism, is today celebrating his 86th birthday, and as usual has the best and heartiest wishes of his innumerable friends. Col. Noble is the same bright, genial fellow he was twenty or thirty years ago, and does not seem to have grown a day older. He reads all the best literature, keeps pace with current events, and goes about much more than many much younger men are able to do.

Mrs. Noble was 80 last July, and both are in excellent health. They are surrounded by their children, all of whom are among Paducah's most prominent men and women.

Another interesting feature of their lives is that Col. and Mrs. Noble were married on December 3, 1842, and tomorrow will be the 60th anniversary of their marriage.

Col. Noble has resided in Paducah many years, and published a newspaper here before most of the present newspaper fraternity even came into existence. For several years he resided at Villa Calhoun, his beautiful home in Annapolis, but in recent years has resided on North Ninth street, in the city.

The Sun joins hosts of others in wishing Col. Noble many happy returns of the day.

CHINESE CHILD DEAD

IT WILL BE THE FIRST OF THE RACE EVER BURIED HERE.

Ernest See, age four months, son of the Chinese laundryman, Henry See, died of cholera yesterday morning at his home on Tenth and Monroe, and will be buried this afternoon at O. K. Grove. This is the first Chinese child to die in Paducah, but several have died and been buried in Paducah cemetery.

SPECIAL JUDGE

ATTORNEY R. T. LIGHTFOOT CHOSEN BY THE BAR TODAY.

Attorney R. T. Lightfoot was today elected by the local bar association for the term to serve during the absence of the late Judge Lightfoot.

Mr. Jeff Rowlett, of Murray, is in the city today.

CONGRESS IS IN SESSION

Both Houses Convened at Noon at Washington.

Organization followed—President Roosevelt's Message Comes Tomorrow.

THE PROGRAM FOR THE WEEK

Washington, Dec. 2.—Both houses of congress convened at noon today. There were more floral offerings than ever seen before. Both branches promptly organized.

One of the first measures of national importance will be a resolution in honor of President McKinley, the death of President McKinley. This will be presented tomorrow by either Senator Foraker or Senator Hanna, probably the former, and after its introduction the senate will adjourn immediately as a mark of respect.

The annual message of President Roosevelt will not be received until tomorrow.

After its reading the announcement of the death of President McKinley will follow at once, whereupon, under the precedents established when President Lincoln died, and that of President Grant, resolutions providing for the appointment of a committee to meet with a similar committee of the house of representatives, to take appropriate action relative to the death of the president and the calling for a special session of the senate for the day will be adopted. It is understood that later in the session some public men of distinction will be invited to deliver a eulogy in the capitol.

Wednesday and Thursday will be devoted to the introduction of new bills and as usual there will be a flood of them. Among the first bills of importance to be presented will be the ship subsidy bill, which will be introduced by Senator Frye, and the Nicaragua canal bill, which Senator Morgan will present. Senator Frye has not entirely completed his bill, but he said today that it would be different in many details from the old bill of last session. This measure was favored by former Senator Edmunds, Senator Frye, and is the author of the new bill.

Senator Morgan's canal bill will be a duplicate of Representative Hepburn's bill on the canal question. Other early bills of importance will be one looking to the construction of a submarine cable from western coast to Hawaii, and another providing for establishment of a new executive department to be known as the department of commerce.

On Thursday the senate will adjourn until the following Monday.

As soon as the house was formally organized, nearly 2000 bills covering every public question were introduced. The senate, after recess and the notification of the president of its convening, adjourned out of respect to the late Senator Kyle. The house had a squabble over the adoption of rules, Richardson leading the fight against re-adoption. The president's message will be read tomorrow.

THE WEATHER.

Fair and colder tonight, Tuesday fair.

BOX FACTORY.

BOSTON MANUFACTURERS SEEKING A LOCATION HERE.

Messrs. B. C. Proctor and F. E. Prince, of Boston, are in this section of the country seeking a location for a box manufacturing plant. They were here last Friday and in Metropolis Saturday, but did not give out anything definite about their intentions. They manufacture small package boxes and egg cases and prefer cottonwood timber. Their plant has a capacity of one finished car load of their product a day.

From Metropolis they went to Memphis and other southern cities.

THE OLD AND THE NEW BODY

City Council Holding Its Last Meeting This Afternoon.

The New Administration Takes Hold and Begins Work This Evening.

NAAMES OF THE NEW CITY OFFICIALS

NEW CITY OFFICERS.

The new city officers who go into office today, and those re-elected to serve new terms are: Mayor, D. A. Yeiser; city judge, D. L. Sanders; city attorney, Jesse M. Gilbert; marshal, James F. Crow; councilmen, first ward, E. D. Haunsa, Joe Potter; second ward, Charles Reed, J. G. Brooks; third ward, J. H. Fowler, E. H. Gilson; fourth ward, J. S. Jackson, M. A. Johnson; fifth ward, Young Taylor, John Neilhaus; sixth ward, E. T. Woolfolk, W. P. Hummel.

COUNCIL'S LAST MEETING.

This afternoon Mayor Lang called the city council to order for the last time, and by the time this is before the reader the mayor and old council will have passed into history, and Mayor Yeiser and the new council installed. The members of the council-elect are present to be sworn in.

This afternoon will be devoted to winding up the business of the council, and leaving everything on the new council to take hold tonight.

Tonight the new council will hold its first regular meeting, and among the important things to be considered will be the election of city officers. No police appointments will be made.

SCHOOL BOARD.

Tomorrow night the board of education, six holdovers and six new members, will meet for re-organization. The new members are: J. W. Gleaves, S. H. Whitstead, Sam Jackson, A. T. Sutherland, J. T. McNichols. Mr. P. T. Lally was re-elected for another term.

SUPPOSED SUICIDE.

SHERIFF OF TRIGG COUNTY DIES FROM A PISTOL WOUND.

Cadir, Dec. 2.—W. B. Pollard, sheriff of Trigg county, was found in his office this morning dying from a pistol wound fired, it is supposed, with suicidal intent. The shot was heard about 10:40 o'clock this morning, and he soon died. He was one of the most popular men in the county, and no cause is known.

ARE DRINKING AND GAMBLING.

Washington, Dec. 2.—The charges filed against George Lieberth, whose appointment as collector at Covington was held up, are drinking and gambling.

Fireman H. Jennings is on the sick list today.

IS NOW A PRIVATE CITIZEN

It Is Plain "Jim" Collins for the First Time in 20 years.

The Retiring City Marshal Makes a Final Report Covering Four Years.

MARSHAL CROW NOW IN CHARGE

Mr. James Collins—until today "City Marshal"—James Collins, is now a private citizen for the first time in twenty years. He turned over his office, records and authority in the new marshal, Former Police Officer James Crow, this afternoon, and Marshal Crow is now in full charge.

Marshal Collins will this afternoon present to the outgoing council his final report, covering four years' service.

It shows that during the four years, he has paid into the city treasury $33,198.05, which does not include collections that went for fees.

The total number of arrests, as near as could be ascertained from the records, was 5593 for misdemeanors and 743 for felony, a total of 6341 during the four years. For the felony arrests he received from the state in four years $1186, which went to the officers making the arrests.

The amount of fines satisfied by confinement to the lockup or work on the street was $18,541, which would require one man over 50 years to work out on the street.

Marshal Collins' report for the last quarter shows that 529 arrests were made by the police, the fines amounting to $3,683.01, out of which $1528.81 is due the city. Only $352 was repaid.

Marshal Collins has made a good, industrious and hard-working marshal, and it will be a pleasure to know he will not be out of a job long, for he will be appointed by one when Mayor Yeiser announces his slate. This will not be until some new police regulations are formulated.

Marshal James Crow has been on the day police force for several years, and a portion of the time on the night force, and is a most popular officer. He will make a good marshal. His deputy will be his son, Mr. Will Crow.

Officer Frank Harlan, who has been Marshal Collins' deputy, has made a good one, and his familiar face will be missed at the desk where you settle up in the police court room.

LIBRARY COMMITTEE.

ANOTHER MEETING HELD THIS AFTERNOON—TWO REPORTS.

There was another meeting of the library committee appointed by the council, and which adjourned without doing anything Friday night, this afternoon at the city hall, and two reports were presented. It is understood that one is for taking no action, and another for accepting the plans of one of the architects and employing him. Neither report would be given out, as they are to be presented to the council for the latter's vote.

QUARTERLY COURT.

Judge Emery convened quarterly court this morning, but little was done. The docket was called and the cases set. In the case of O. W. Elrod and wife, who were sued by Mattell, Ellinger & Co., a judgment for $18.50 was filed in favor of the plaintiff.

A petition from fifty residents of the Rowlandown portion of the city asking that no more turkey shoots be held at that place was filed with the court. They claim that the bullets are shot into their houses, and that the sport endangers their lives. The court will order the shoots forbidden, and if any more are held the offenders will be arrested and fined.

WILL CONTEST.

Hopkinsville, Dec. 2.—John Feland has filed notice of contesting the election of D. S. Edwards, Democrat, for state senator, alleging that illegal ballots were counted.

OUR STREETS.

One hundred thousand dollars on the streets, twenty thousand dollars on bridges and culverts, and twenty-seven thousand dollars on sanitation is the sum total of public money spent in these respective departments of city government during the past four years.

While we may have good results, it will strike the average citizen that the expenditure of such a vast amount of money for the benefits we have obtained was the most wanton extravagance. In the departments allotted to much money has to be spent every year, and there are few in which it could be spent to better advantage. Yet it will be generally believed that we have not secured $100,000 worth of benefit. New streets cost comparatively little, as the city has to pay for only the intersections. The average spent on repairs to old streets is therefore about $25,000 a year. And our streets are never in good condition. One has only to drive over them to fully realize how disgracefully bad they are. Even the brick street has its defects, and despite the regard for public thoroughfares which has resulted in the expenditure of $100,000 in four years, the streets are torn up by various corporations, and no official steps taken to compel the latter to place them in good condition. Many of the streets are now disfigured by successive blocks of ridges left by the gas company in filling its trenches. It could be made to place them in proper condition, but is not.

There is nothing to use for a criterion in estimating what should be required to keep the streets in repair, it is true, but a contractor a few years ago offered to keep them all in good repair, and give a bond to do the same, for $10,000 year, or only $50,000 for five years, the contract not to be for less than five years. This was declined by the Republican council, because the latter thought the work could be done cheaper by the city. Yet the succeeding administration has spent double what the contractor offered to do the work for.

What the city needs for its streets is better gravel, and a modern method of putting it on. It is dumped onto the streets and spread by hand, instead of laid places being rebuilt and rolled, which would result in permanent benefit. We have a street roller, but it is never used. If Paducah expects to ever have good streets, she must have good gravel, and use modern methods in repaving her thoroughfares. Until she does this, much of the thousands of dollars spent every year will be wasted.

The claim of some of the Democratic papers that there is a trace of any description between President Roosevelt and Senator Hanna is not seriously taken by anyone, even the Democrats. Senator Hanna was one of the first to whom President Roosevelt pledged his friendship, and there is no reason why there should be any estrangement. The claim that Senator Hanna attempted or desired to dictate to anyone is only one of the many mendacious stories started by the Democrats. Senator Hanna is a man of too much intelligence and tact to attempt to dictate to President Roosevelt. There was no truth in the oft-repeated claim that he dictated to or influenced President McKinley. They were staunch friends, and had a mutual confidence in each other that probably was the only foundation for the misrepresentation. President Roosevelt and Senator Hanna are both good Republicans, and they are not the kind of men to become enemies. They know that to become such would disrupt their party, and probably result in the election of a Democratic president next time. The Republicans as well as any one know the value of keeping the party intact, and can be counted on to keep it so. On this move they often relied in past years for the many victories over the democrats. And on this they must rely for future victories, which are inevitable as long as the party is led by such staunch and able men as have directed its destinies in past years.

It seems that Venezuela is under the impression that the Monroe Doctrine, enforced by the United States, will enable her to do a great many things with impunity. Venezuela owes a heavy indemnity to German citizens, and it is feared that Germany contemplates forcing the payment of the indemnity. The Monroe doctrine, it is believed in official circles, would not be applied in such a case, and if Venezuela received a good drubbing it might do her good. She seems to know about as much about the Monroe doctrine as some of the European powers. When the United States a few days ago prohibited the use of the isthmian railroad to the Colombian government for transporting its soldiers, some of the European papers attributed it to the "Monroe doctrine." This had nothing to do with it. The United States was merely fulfilling its treaty agreement to keep the isthmian open, and if the Colombian government had been allowed to use the railroad to carry its soldiers, the rebels would have been justified in tearing up the railroad to prevent it, and in this way travel and traffic would be interfered with, and the United States subjected to the accusation of having failed to comply with its contract.

The federal court in Georgia has decided that private sanatoriums cannot hold a patient against his will, declaring that an attempt to do so is a violation of the fourteenth amendment of the United States constitution. The decision rendered was in a case where in a wife had placed her husband in a sanatorium to be kept in confinement, and he took steps to be released, and as a result of the decision he was released.

A notable decision has just been rendered in Brooklyn by a federal judge, sustaining the treasury department in its order that an alleged consumptive named Boden be deported to Ireland. The question involved was whether consumptives have a right to land here as immigrants and it is believed the decision will have a far reaching effect.

Mayor Lang says he has had enough office to do him a lifetime—but a man may change his mind in good many times in course of a few years, and Mayor Lang is a young man.

We're going to have a public library, no matter how much trouble the committees get into.

Some of the police will enjoy a few days' grace—but none of them is exactly happy yet.

Democratic motto: The city treasury may be bankrupt—but look at the fun we're had.

The efforts of the Hopkins enemy miners to pose as martyrs will not fool anybody.

The new council and grand jury went in hand in hand today.

It will soon be "Mayor Yeiser."

NEWS NOTES.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

EDUCATIONAL MEETING HERE ENDED SATURDAY AFTER-NOON.

The First District Educational Association ended a successful meeting Saturday evening at the Cumberland Presbyterian church.

The election of officers resulted: Prof. T. J. Coates, of Princeton, president; Miss Harriett Wilson Paducah, vice president; Miss Emma Morgan, Paducah, re-elected secretary.

The laws were amended making the meetings annual instead of semi-annual, and denoting the enrollment tax. Paducah was chosen for the next annual meeting next November.

A resolution offered by Prof. Stiller, that all teachers who do not become members shall not be properly considered members of the profession, was adopted.

STRANGE FIND.

FOUND A PETRIED CHILD'S FOOT IN GRAVES.

Mayfield, Dec. 2.—Friday, while working the postoffice road near the old Bethel graveyard near Prossburg, George B. Hansen, one of the men, found a petrified child's foot. It is exactly the size of the foot of a child five or six years old, in shape and form.

The foot is three inches long, leg five inches, and the entire piece is eight inches.

Bethel is one of the oldest graveyards in this country, and this relic is supposed to be the foot of an Indian child, or of some of the pioneer children that lived here in the early days of this country. It is quite a curiosity to all who have seen it, and to the man who found it. Seemed to him like picking up a part of the dead.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

STABLE AND CONTENTS DESTROYED NEAR NINTH AND CLAY.

Streeter Adams, colored porter at the Illinois Central hospital, discovered the stable in the rear of Mrs. Chas. Thomas' residence at Ninth and Clay streets on fire at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night. Will Ashford, colored, who is in the transfer business, rented the stable, which belonged to Mrs. Thomas, and there were fourteen head of mules and horses in it, besides a quantity of feed. Two of the animals perished, but the others were gotten out by Adams and "Rabbit" Duggs, colored. The latter was painfully burned about the face and hands. The total loss from the conflagration was about $1,000, with partial insurance.

Chas. Replogle, Atwater, O., was in very bad shape. He says: "I suffered a great deal with my kidneys and was requested to try FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE. I did so and in four days I was able to go to work again, now I am entirely well."

Roosevelt Anecdotes

Roosevelt and His "Specs."

"Colonel Roosevelt is very nearsighted," says a man who saw service at Santiago, "and when the hot fighting was in progress his luggage consisted almost entirely of spectacles. Near-sighted people always have an abiding fear of losing their glasses, knowing their absolute helplessness without such aid, and I was told by one of the New York club contingent that Roosevelt took particular pains before leaving home to provide against such a disaster."

"He had been in the habit of wearing nose glasses, with a black silk cord attached, but the arrangement was entirely unsuited to a campaign, where the glasses themselves would be liable to fall off constantly and the cord would be a nuisance."

"The glasses were made of steel hooks for the ears and had a dozen pairs mounted. These he placed around his person and equipment, trying to distribute them so no one would be able to include them all. One pair was sewed in his blouse, another in his belt, another in his hat, two in his saddle bags, and so on."

"At the fight at San Juan his horse was balked by a bullet while held by an orderly and plunged frantically against a tree. Colonel Roosevelt came rushing up, all anxiety, and began pulling under the saddle flap. 'They haven't hurt the bag, sir,' said the orderly. 'I know,' replied the colonel, with tears in his voice; 'but, blast 'em, they've smashed my specs!'"

Roosevelt as a Powder Burner.

Long before the blowing up of the Maine in Havana harbor Mr. Roosevelt made the prediction that "we shall be compelled to fight Spain within a year." Soon after he was appointed assistant secretary of the navy in 1897, he asked for an appropriation of $800,000 for ammunition for the use of the navy. This appropriation was made.

A few months later he made an application for funds. He was asked what had been done with the first $800,000 worth of powder and shot. Looking through his spectacles with flashing eyes, Roosevelt blandly replied, "Every cent of it has been spent for powder, and every bit of the powder has been burned."

He was then asked what he was going to do with the half million dollars he had recently requested, and he said, "Doing to use every ounce of that, too, within the next thirty days in practice shooting." And used it was.

Roosevelt's Escape From the Grizzly.

Mr. Webb, who accompanied the then Vice President Elect Roosevelt on his hunt for big game in Colorado last winter, relates the following story of the statesman's escape from a grizzly bear:

"It was still quite early in the morning. Goff, the guide, assured us that we would stand an excellent chance at that time if bears were around, and, as snow had fallen, we had hopes that a grizzly or two had been driven down from the hills. And we were not disappointed."

"We had hardly ridden a quarter of a mile when Goff called our attention to a huge brute lumbering unsteadily up a miniature canyon. Between us and the canyon the ground was comparatively open, so we dashed up to the rocks, dismounted and resumed our pursuit of him."

"Hastily Colonel Roosevelt took a shot. The bear only moved faster. Stewart and I tried it, but still the old grizzly kept on. Colonel Roosevelt was wild with enthusiasm and despite the guide's warning dashed ahead of us all. He rapidly overhauled the bear and when thirty yards away looked careful aim and fired. The bear had now almost reached the head of the canyon, and there was no escape except by scaling the cliff. Roosevelt's last shot struck him, and, rearing on his hind legs and snarling fiercely, he started toward Teddy."

"Run, colonel!" yelled Goff, taking in the situation, for the bear was mad and his twelve hundred odd pounds were fairly quivering with rage. Calmly Roosevelt took another shot, but the bear was now under full swing and coming with speed. The rest of us were about thirty yards back, and we yelled again. One more shot, and then Roosevelt turned to see; but, to our horror, he stumbled and fell sprawling. I took careful aim at the angry bear and fired, but still he came. Stewart poured shot into his carcass. Goff ran forward and shot, and Roosevelt scrambled to his feet, with brain fifteen feet away. He coolly turned and fired again and stopped the animal. A fusilade from all of us followed, and with a last stagger toward us the game old animal laid down and died.

"The skin of that bear will remain the coldest of his best adventure, if I'm not mistaken," declares the doctor.

Roosevelt Had Hardtack Tea.

"I remember the evening of July 2," says one of Roosevelt's ex-rough riders, "when we were in the San Juan trenches. We were rather shy on provisions about that time, and after figuring a while they made out to give us two pieces of hardtack each, except four of us, who got only one piece each. We'd made the best we could of our supper, and I was standing by when the colonel came up. The first thing he asked was whether we had had our rations, such as they were. They told him we had."

"All right," he said, "I'll have mine now." And he ate his two pieces of hardtack like the rest of us."

How Roosevelt Rode a Wild Cow.

"Theodore Roosevelt was well known in the west long before his rough riders were thought of," says P. C. Hoover, a ranchman of the Big Horn country, Wyoming.

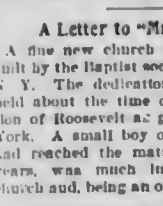

"It was in 1887 that Teddy Roosevelt stopped for a few days at my ranch. He said he had come for big game, and he got it. We were out shooting and ran across a bunch of wild cattle. Teddy could not resist the temptation to rope one. He tried to rope it, but the broncho rebelled and threw him."

"The rope went wild, and so did the horse. Roosevelt had ridden some distance from us, and before we could come up one of the cows charged him. We expected, of course, to see his finish right there."

"I had my gun pointed ready to get a shot at the cow when I saw that he was not hurt. He was laughing his charge up San Juan hill. He dodged the cow when she charged, and before she could turn he made a leap and was on her back."

"Then he did show the boys that he could ride. The cow did not know what to make of the performance, and after a pitch or two she started on a dead run down the gulch."

"Teddy stayed with her until she was tired out and we had overtaken them. One of the boys roped the cow, and Roosevelt bounded off, smiling as usual, and the only comment he made was that he had never enjoyed a ride more."

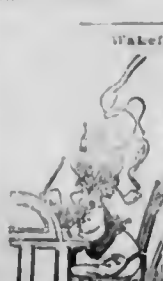

A Letter to "Mr. Teddy."

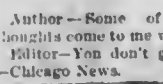

A fine new church has lately been built by the Baptist society of Shushan, N. Y. The dedication services were held about the time of the inauguration of Roosevelt as governor of New York. A small boy of Shushan, who had reached the mature age of four years, was much interested in the church and, being an observing lad and having a good deal of talk about Teddy Roosevelt, sent down one day with pencil and paper and wrote as follows:

Dear Mr. Teddy—We are building a beautiful new church. Won't you please send us 10 cents for it? CHARLES BROWN.

The letter was sent by the child's father to the governor, and almost by return of mail came an answer from Teddy. It was a bright new 10 cent piece, and what was better, many kind words to the letter writer and best wishes for the prosperity of the "beautiful new church."

Slow Healing Sores

With rich, pure, strong blood one is never troubled with sores or ulcers. A cut or any injury to the flesh heals in a few days, nature supplying the healing matter. But when the circulation is tainted with poisonous germs, humors or any effete matter, a slight scratch or abrasion of the skin becomes a festering sore, tiny pimples grow to be boils, swollen joints and inflamed glands often break out into offensive, slow healing sores. A polluted blood is always a menace to health; not only does it keep the skin in a chronic state of inflammation, but every organ and fibre of the body suffers from an impure and sluggish circulation. You never feel well, you are not and never can be well until the system is relieved of its terrible load of impurities. With the blood so contaminated, so deeply poisoned, ulcers, boils and sores of every kind are apt to become chronic and often develop into Cancer.

Sores and ulcers are most often caused by poverty of the blood and a weak and slow circulation, brought on by long continued sickness, malarial poisoning, torpid liver, the use of mercury, or whatever is calculated to destroy the vitality of the blood and break down the constitution. These old chronic sores last sometimes for years, eating into the flesh, muscles, tendons, and even down into the bones, and are such a tax upon the system that it is hard for the patient to recuperate, and a simple malady often proves fatal.

Nothing so quickly or surely restores lost strength and vitality to the blood as S. S. S. It is an absolute for the severest forms of blood poison, as well as the irritating humors that cause the eruptions and sores that sap your very life and so greatly disfigure you. S. S. S. is the only guaranteed purely vegetable blood purifier. It contains no mercury, potash, arsenic or other harmful drug. It cleanses the blood and purifies the circulation, thus ridding the system of the impurities that keep the sores feverish and painful. At the same time your general health improves under the tonic effects of S. S. S., and the skin becomes soft, smooth and healthy. If you are troubled with boils, carbuncles, sores or eruptions of any sort, write our physicians all about your case; don't risk your own judgment when you can get medical advice from experienced doctors free. Look on blood and skin diseases to all who desire it.

THE SUN'S DAILY STORY.

THE EVENTS OF A DAY.

By THOMAS P. MONTFORT. Copyright, 1901, by the Daily Story Pub. Co.

"By George! but I wish I had a chance to know her! She's about the prettiest girl I ever saw."

Joe Martin ended with a sigh, for, although he was not aware of it, he had already taken the first step toward falling desperately in love with Susan Meade.

He had seen her for the first time in his life while walking slowly along a trail that led across the cattle range of western Texas. Hearing a woman's voice, he had turned off to the left in a few yards where he had found Miss Meade in great distress.

In reaching out over a little slough, trying to get a choke water lily, she had lost her balance and tumbled into the water. She had quickly regained her footing, but the bank was so high and steep that she could not ascend it. So, drenched from head to foot, and standing in water waist deep, she was compelled to wait for some one to come to her rescue.

When two long hours had passed, and she had waited, time and again, without attracting notice, she lost hope and began to wonder if she would have to spend the night there, or whether it was not possible that she might remain there until she died of starvation. Just as she had succeeded in conjuring up the very gloomiest of prospects, and was having a hard struggle to keep back her tears, Joe Martin appeared on the bank above her.

While he sat staring unsmilingly at the cowboys, wondering what their conduct meant, one of their number remarked dryly:

"Howful 'rommodatin' of you to come right to us, young feller, 'stead of 'avin' us chase you all over the prairie. Sares is a bisp o' trouble. Don't 'pear lack it shows much good judgment on y' part, though."

"What do you mean?" Martin managed to gasp. "What are you talking about?"

"Oh, nothin' partic'lar. You jest go 'long up to the ranch with us and we'll explain matters there."

"But I can't go to the ranch. I'm in a great hurry. I am going to get a doctor for a man who's badly hurt."

The cowboy grinned dryly.

"Oh, the man ain't hurt yet," he said, but he will be pretty soon, and when he is, he won't need no doctor. Doctors ain't no use to hoss thieves when once we git our hands on 'em."

"Horse thieves! What are you—why you are mad!"

"Talkin' 'bout you. That happens to be our horse you are riding, and as you didn't buy him it stands to reason you stole him."

"But I did nothing of the kind. It's a lie."

And then Martin told how he came to have the horse in his possession, but the cowboys only shook their heads and smiled incredulously. "You can tell that to the boss when we get to the ranch," one of them said. "Mebby he'll believe it. Mebby so."

Joe perforce accompanied the cowboys to the ranch. There they were met by the owner, a young man of good appearance, and to him Joe told his story, hoping it would be believed. However, when he had finished, the other slowly shook his head and replied:

"You tell a very plausible story, but I am a little afraid to believe it. I am fearful I can't do anything for you, but I will think it over. In the meantime we will hold you. Go into that room there."

Martin went into the room indicated and sat down in a dejected attitude. It was bad enough for a young man of irreproachable character to be suspected of such a crime as horse-stealing, but that was nothing compared to the prospect of being hung to the nearest tree. He had not been in Texas long, being only there for an outlay, but he knew that a horse thief, and sometimes those who were merely suspected of the crime, were summarily dealt with there.

He had been sitting so for a long time when suddenly a woman's voice broke a deathlike stillness, and he raised his head to listen.

"Oh, Roh," she cried, "I have just had the greatest experience! It would have been perfectly lovely under other circumstances."

"At must have been lovely anyway, judging by your appearance. You look as though you'd been wallowing in a pond."

"I have. Not wallowing, exactly, but I fell in, and the handsomest, sweetest young man came along and pulled me out. Oh, dear! I wish I could know him."

Roh was silent and thoughtful for a little while, then he said:

"Would you know the man, sister, if you were to see him again?"

"Of course. But I shall never see him. More's the pity."

"Did he have a horse?"

"Not then. But I saw a man give him one, or sell it to him, or something, directly after he left me. But why do you ask that?"

Robert Meade, the owner of the ranch, took his sister to Martin and, of course, she recognized him at a glance. Then Meade understood the whole situation. The horse thief, finding himself too hard pressed by the cowboys, put Martin in possession of the horse to throw the suspicion on him.

Martin not only established his innocence and gained his liberty, but he became a guest at the ranch, and finally bought an interest in the business and stayed permanently.

He never forgot his experience of that day, and he never regretted it, either, for otherwise he would likely never have won Susan for his wife.

She looked up at him with mingled feelings of joy, shame and anger. It was joyful to know that a rescuer was at hand, but she was too womanly to forget for an instant the spectacle she presented in her drenched condition, and the faint trace of a smile she saw on his lips angered her. Reaching down toward her he commanded her to give him her hands, and she hesitatingly obeyed, and the next moment he drew her up to his own level.

"I hope you are not hurt," he said, looking at her anxiously.

"Not in the least," she replied, shrinking before his gaze. "I am very well now, and need not trouble you further. I am very grateful to you for your kindness."

"Which name," he said, "that I may go as soon as I like."

"Don't feel that I am ungrateful and unappreciative," she answered. "But you—"

"I know," he said. "It is your appearance. I am not cruel enough to take any notice of that. Isn't there some other service I could render you? Can't I see you to your home?"

"I thank you, but I prefer to go alone."

"Then I'll bid you good day."

"Good day."

As Joe continued on his way he recalled her features, and the more he thought of her the more eagerly he wished that he might know her. She, too, thought of him and wished she might know him.

"But it can never be," he said to himself, "for tomorrow I leave for my home, back East."

"Perhaps I shall meet him again," she said to herself, "for one can never tell what may happen."

She was right. One can never tell what may happen. Joe discovered the truth of those words sooner than might have been expected. And he discovered it in a way not to be readily forgotten.

He had gone but a short distance when he met a man on horseback. The man had been riding hard, for his horse was wet with sweat and was well blown.

"Are you going to town, stranger?" he called eagerly, bringing his horse to a stop.

"I am," Joe replied. "Why?"

"I thought you might be willing to do me a favor," the other answered quickly.

"Certainly. What is it?"

"My brother has just been severely hurt and must have the attention of a doctor at once. There is no one with him and I hate to leave him alone, so I thought if you would just take my horse and ride to town you could send the doctor out."

It all seemed reasonable enough to Joe, so he consented to the arrangement.

"Just leave the horse at a stable there," the man added, "and tell the doctor that it's at Mr. Henkens he's wanted."

"All right," Joe replied, swinging himself into the saddle, as soon as the other had vacated it.

"And remember that there's no time to waste," the man said, "for it is a matter of life and death."

It was a matter of life and death, but in a different way to that which Joe suspected. He understood something of this, however, when ten minutes later he rode full tilt into a gang of cowboys and found himself snatched with a dozen pistols pointed at his head.

While he sat staring unsmilingly at the cowboys, wondering what their conduct meant, one of their number remarked dryly:

"Howful 'rommodatin' of you to come right to us, young feller, 'stead of 'avin' us chase you all over the prairie. Sares is a bisp o' trouble. Don't 'pear lack it shows much good judgment on y' part, though."

He had not been in Texas long, being only there for an outlay, but he knew that a horse thief, and sometimes those who were merely suspected of the crime, were summarily dealt with there.

He had been sitting so for a long time when suddenly a woman's voice broke a deathlike stillness, and he raised his head to listen.

"Oh, Roh," she cried, "I have just had the greatest experience! It would have been perfectly lovely under other circumstances."

"At must have been lovely anyway, judging by your appearance. You look as though you'd been wallowing in a pond."

"I have. Not wallowing, exactly, but I fell in, and the handsomest, sweetest young man came along and pulled me out. Oh, dear! I wish I could know him."

Roh was silent and thoughtful for a little while, then he said:

"Would you know the man, sister, if you were to see him again?"

"Of course. But I shall never see him. More's the pity."

"Did he have a horse?"

"Not then. But I saw a man give him one, or sell it to him, or something, directly after he left me. But why do you ask that?"

Robert Meade, the owner of the ranch, took his sister to Martin and, of course, she recognized him at a glance. Then Meade understood the whole situation. The horse thief, finding himself too hard pressed by the cowboys, put Martin in possession of the horse to throw the suspicion on him.

Martin not only established his innocence and gained his liberty, but he became a guest at the ranch, and finally bought an interest in the business and stayed permanently.

He never forgot his experience of that day, and he never regretted it, either, for otherwise he would likely never have won Susan for his wife.

hurt and must have the attention of a doctor at once. There is no one with him and I hate to leave him alone, so I thought if you would just take my horse and ride to town you could send the doctor out."

It all seemed reasonable enough to Joe, so he consented to the arrangement.

"Just leave the horse at a stable there," the man added, "and tell the White-Headed Storks.

The London Natural History Museum is exulting over the acquisition of a pair of white-headed storks. The only birds of this species that were ever held in captivity were two that were brought to the London Zoological Gardens in 1859. One of the birds recently arrived at the museum came from the country around the Zarah river, beyond Khartoum, and the other from the Victoria Nyanza.

LODGE OF SORROW

The Kentucky Crowded With Elks and Their Friends.

An Impressive Service in Memory of the Dead Yesterday Afternoon.

1901 DEATH ROLL.

"The faults of our brothers we write on the sands, Their virtues on the tablets of love and memory."

EDWIN B. WEIL, H. M. BEAUCHAMP, JOHN T. JACKSON, GEORGE SPENCER, JOSEPH T. DICKE, BEN ENGLERT.

The Elks memorial services at the Kentucky yesterday afternoon were attended by perhaps the largest crowd that ever witnessed a memorial service in Paducah.

The members met at Elks hall on Fourth street and marched to the theater in a body at 2:30 o'clock entering through the stage door, and taking seats on the stage.

Two opening ceremonies were very impressive, and were preceded by a magnificent rendition of "The Holy City" by Dean's band.

Invocation was pronounced by Rabbi Alexander, followed by a beautiful solo by that attractive and cultured singer, Mrs. James Welle.

The lodge and congregation rendered "Nearer My God to Thee."

Dr. C. E. Whitesides, exalted ruler, made a brief but well delivered address explaining the significance of the annual memorial services.

Mr. Will H. Farley, esteemed leading knight, in the absence of Attorney J. Wheeler Campbell, delivered the general eulogy on "Our Dead." Mr. Farley's address, although he had but a short time in which to prepare it, was a creditable effort.

Mr. Ernest Lutz rendered "The Trumpet Shall Sound," with trumpet obligato by Mr. E. Cooney.

One of the most commented features of the service was the magnificent address of Rev. G. W. Briggs, of the Broadway Methodist church, on "Fighting in the Ranks."

A vocal solo, "These Are They Which Have Come Up" was well rendered by Mrs. Camille Baird, with a clarinet obligato by Prof. Frank Dean.

"Forget Me Not,"—the pretty ceremony of the Elks marching to the center of the stage and depositing in an urn sprays of forget-me-nots in memory of the dead—to the music of an intermezzo from Wagner by Prof. John Hobson's orchestra, with a hymn by lodge and congregation, preceded the closing ceremonies, followed by the benediction which ended the service.

The memorial committee to whose work the success of the service is largely due, was Messrs. Chas. Welle, E. T. Lightfoot, H. O. Farnham, H. A. Gilbert and T. W. Baird chairman.

WINGO NEXT.

THE HIGH SCHOOL BOYS WILL ATTEND TO THE GRAVES COUNTY BOYS.

All arrangements for the big football game at the fair grounds next Saturday afternoon between the Wingo and High School teams, have been completed and the game promises to be one of the best ever played in Western Kentucky. The High School team has arranged a new code of signals and has been hard at practice since the game last Thursday and have hopes of gaining a victory over the Wingo boys.

Mr. George C. Wallace, of the street car company, has donated a next aim for the improvement of the fair grounds and work will begin immediately on the field and it will be placed in the very best of condition. The advertising will be gotten out today and the game well advertised.

The car company will run an extra line of cars to accommodate the crowd and all conveniences for the public's comfort will be made. A good patronage is expected.

When Mr. James O'Neill appears at The Kentucky theatre Tuesday night, December 3rd, in Liebler & Co.'s colossal scenic production of "Monte Cristo," he will have played the role of Edmond Dantes nearly 5,000 times. There is apparent in his force, and although one might think that he would tire of the part, he says that he finds it necessary to recreate it every time he plays it.

LAI TO REST.

Funeral of the Late Mr. M. K. Scott This Morning.

In His Death Paducah Has Lost One of Her Most Prominent Citizens.

The funeral of the late Mr. M. K. Scott took place at 10 o'clock this morning from the residence at Fourth and Monroe streets, Rev. W. H. Pinkerton, of the First Christian church, officiating. The burial was at Oak Grove.

Mr. Scott's critical illness ended in death late Saturday afternoon, and created widespread sorrow throughout the city. He was a prominent and public spirited citizen, a fine business man, and at the head of one of the largest hardware firms in the state.

Mr. Scott was born August 17, 1832 near Louisville. His father was a native of Ohio and his mother of Virginia. In New Orleans, when 20 years old, he joined the Cuban army under Gen. Lopez, and went to Cuba, but was almost immediately captured by the Spanish and sentenced to ten years in the quicksilver mines in Africa, which meant virtually a living death. He was taken to Spain and upon reaching Cadiz paroled and turned over to the American consul who sent him home.

He married Miss Elizabeth Apple gate, of Louisville, in 1858, and the same year came to Paducah. In 1865 he opened a tin shop with $150 capital and ten years later the Scott and Emery hardware firm was founded, which subsequently was changed to that of Scott, Stevens and Co., and after the Scott Hardware Co., the present firm of which the deceased was president.

The deceased had not been in good health for a year or more, but had been able to get around until about three weeks ago. He leaves besides a son seven children, Messrs. Frank Will and Richard Scott, and Mesdames Annabelle Seale, Lee Vance and Lloyd Dawson and Miss Irene Scott.

He was a member of the Knights of Honor.

The active pall bearers at the funeral were: Postmaster F. M. Fisher, Geo. C. Wallace, E. P. Noble, K. E. Ashbrook, J. A. Miller, and F. P. Toof. Honorary pall bearers: Judge James Bethshares, R. O. Caldwell, J. W. McKnight, J. T. Wright, Chas. Reed and Thomas E. Moss.

NEW SCHEDULE.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL ENGINEERS TO BE PAID DIFFERENTLY HEREAFTER.

This week a new schedule of rate of pay for the Illinois Central engineers, both freight and passenger, will be submitted to the engineers by the Illinois Central for consideration. There has been some little dissatisfaction in the rate of pay since the Illinois Central absorbed the smaller roads, the rate the Illinois Central paid first having been sustained on all the systems disorganizing the rate the smaller roads had inaugurated before having been absorbed.

It seems that the present rate has caused some little confusion in the master mechanics' departments and to remedy this a new schedule has been arranged and will, as above stated, be presented to the committee of engineers for their consideration.

Heretofore the rate has been based on the number of wheels the engine carries but under the new arrangement the rate will be based on the size of the cylinder and the larger the cylinder the higher the pay for the engineer will be. The new rate will be of a greater benefit to the freight engineers on the 500 class engines, the largest on the south end. It is not known what other provisions will be made when the proposition is presented and it is thought that the rate will be accepted as presented without any change.

BOARD MEETING FOR THE STATE CONVENTION IN FEBRUARY.

There were no speakings at the association yesterday afternoon, but meetings of an informal nature were held. After the meetings the Bible class held a short session.

Tonight the board will meet for the purpose of arranging for the convention in February, and also to arrange for the local work, and the young men's meetings that were started several weeks ago. State Secretary H. Rosevear and Mr. F. J. Michel, the assistant secretary, will be present at the meeting.

The grammar and arithmetic class will meet tonight for the regular work.

The boys' class will meet at 6:30 o'clock, and the young men will meet at 8 for gymnasium work.

OFFICE BUILDING.
THE AYER-LORD THE COMPANY TO CHANGE ITS HEAD-QUARTERS.

The building to be used as local headquarters of the Ayer-Lord The company will be erected on South First street, adjoining the Putters boat store, and completed by January 1st. The company's office is now at Second and Broadway, over the Postal Telegraph office. The new building will be a one-story brick, 30x30, with a store room in the rear. The property belongs to Mr. George Langstaff, and will be leased for five years by the company.

At its completion the headquarters of General Inspector Holland, now at Cumberland City, Tenn., will be moved here.

Engineer Joe Sinnfield is off duty suffering from a badly burned hand. He was repairing the injector on his engine and was accidentally scalded by hot water from the boiler. The injury is not serious.
